Introduction to the Montessori Materials Lists

The three materials lists that follow are offered for reference purposes. The first list is for the Toddler level of Montessori (16 months – 3 years). The second list is a special list for a level that may be used by some schools called Emerging. The third list is for the Early Childhood level of Montessori. The fourth list is for the Lower Elementary (6-9) level of Montessori and the final list is for the Upper Elementary (9-12) level of Montessori.

Most of the lists show Montessori Materials only. They generally do not include most consumables such as crayons, paper, glue, foods, soap, etc. These consumables need to be ordered separately. They also generally do not include furniture. It is on a separate furniture list.

The materials lists are organized into columns. The first column, titled Name, lists common or usual names of the material. Since names are sometimes or often different from course to course or company to company, these are an attempt at a generic name.

The second column, titled Vendor, is to indicate a supplier from which the material is available. The Montessori program requires quality material. There are many Montessori suppliers, and this list references several of them. We have made it our business to review materials from many vendors and recommend superior materials. Be very careful if you vary from the recommended materials.

The third column, titled Number, is the order number of the item from whichever supplier we recommended. Please check all order numbers since the companies change many of them, or we may have made a typographical error.

The remaining columns are generally titled, First Year per Classroom and Second Year per Classroom. These represent the minimum quantities of those materials required for instructional purposes. In that column the entry optional means that it is entirely up to the school whether or not to acquire that item. The entry suggested is a bit stronger. It means that it is recommended to get although not essential. A numeral such as 1 or 2 means do get that number of that item.

All Montessori classrooms should generally begin with all materials fully available. However, due to financial constraints, this may not be possible. For this financial reason only, I have prioritized materials into those absolutely necessary in the first year, placed in the First Year per Classroom column and those materials that could be deferred until the second year, placed in the Second Year per Classroom column. Some areas, such as Early Childhood Practical Life and Sensorial, cannot be prioritized in that way; almost all materials must be present to open the class.

Please note the footnotes, since there are many comments that may explain and be relevant in the process of selecting materials.

When ordering materials, be sure to check the order numbers and the current prices, they often change. Be sure to order very early to guarantee delivery. Please call me at 651-353-2109 or e-mail at mjdorer@gmail.com with any comments or questions.

Emerging

Emerging Materials and Activities

The usual Toddler age range in most Montessori Centers is limited by state regulation to 16 or 18 months to 30 or 36 months. In many programs, when children reach 30 to 36 months they are moved to a Children's House (Early Childhood) classroom. In other locations children only enter Children's House if they are three years of age by a specific date, such as September 15.

However, in certain schools, the range is extended to older children with special needs, making the class not just a Toddler class but a Toddler plus environment, called Emerging.

Neither AMS, AMI, PAMS, nor MEPI recognizes the Emerging level, so there are no official lists of what to add to the Toddler class to serve the needs of the older children in that environment. It is important in adding material not to add anything labeled specifically for over three because of choking hazard, since that could be dangerous to the young toddlers.

I suggest some basic simple additional materials mostly from Sensorial and Practical Life areas. These might include a Brown Stair, Binomial Cube, etc. The teachers in the Emerging level will choose other materials based upon the needs of the older children that they are serving.

I have listed no numbers per classroom since all of these materials are essentially optional. Allocation of materials will depend upon the ages of the older children (if any) and their developmental levels.

Early Childhood Language

Note on Grammar: Many Children's House (Early Childhood) classrooms teach only six Parts of Speech (Functions of Words). These are the noun, article, adjective, conjunction, preposition, and verb. They are usually not named at this level. This list is based on that concept of introducing six functions. Other materials, such as the Logical Adverb Exercise (Nienhuis 5.642.00) are marked as optional.

³ These are in print (manuscript) since they are reading material rather than writing material.

⁵ To be used only if the adverb is presented in this level.

⁷ Note: This contains ten Grammar Symbols. We recommend using only six, however ordering them individually is more expensive than ordering the whole set.

¹³ All bead material for the Elementary One and Elementary Two should be the connected bead style (no wires). This material is mathematically more accurate, and easier to work with. It has the additional benefit of being less expensive, one of the few cases where the better material costs less. All numbers shown are for the connected beads. Specify all connected beads when ordering.

¹⁴ See note above for all bead material.

¹⁷ All sandpaper letters recommended here are cursive. Avoid the print (manuscript).

¹⁸ The reason that five of these boxes are suggested is that we recommend presenting all letters - single and double - mixed, and that no distinction be made between the three sets of sandpaper letters (blue, red and green) other than color. To hold all of these letters, we suggest grouping them in five large boxes. This plan is detailed in the book Words.

¹⁹ This is a complete expanded material based on the pioneering work of Muriel Dwyer, which is presented in A Key to Reading and Writing for English. We strongly recommend using material based on Dwyer's work.

Lower Elementary Practical Life

For Elementary Practical Life we suggest that at least exercises be done in the following areas: Care of the Environment, Grace and Courtesy, Care of the Person, Food Preparation and Science Experiments. Basic science experiments should be selected to include pouring, carrying, scooping, etc. These will help to develop the coordination, sense of order and independence while having the secondary aim of science.

²³ All bead material for the Elementary One and Elementary Two should be the connected bead style (no wires). This material is mathematically more accurate, and easier to work with. It has the additional benefit of being less expensive, one of the few cases where the better material costs less. All numbers shown are for the connected beads. Specify all connected beads when ordering.

²⁴ See note above for all bead material.
